

How Consulting Services Can Benefit You!

Consulting services at All About Developmental Disabilities are offered by professionals with extensive knowledge of supports and services available to assist the families of individuals living with developmental disabilities. We make every effort to provide affordable consultation services, which are subsidized by private donations. Navigational consulting is an individualized service providing families with the information they need to obtain the specific supports or benefits required to meet the needs of their loved one. Our consultants advise families on a variety of matters including: acquisition of benefits including Medicaid waivers and Social Security, how to utilize NOW/COMP waivers to achieve the most appropriate supports, self-direction of NOW/COMP waivers, and advising around ISP and IEP planning.

Our consultants attend a variety of workshops and trainings to enhance professional development, and stay current on changes in the field. In addition, consultants utilize contacts and relationships developed over many years to benefit the individuals that we serve by often expediting the various processes. The cost of consultation services is offset by the time families save researching information that is often hard to access and process. Families that are frustrated by the lack of pertinent information regarding the supports and services that are available, or who feel overwhelmed trying to make important decisions with little knowledge of support available can benefit greatly from individualized consulting services.
